INTRODUCTION

The RESPECT program is a preferential purchasing program established by the Florida Legislature in 1974 through Chapters 413.032-413.037, Florida Statutes. The purpose of the RESPECT program is to encourage and assist individuals who are severely disabled to achieve maximum personal independence through useful, productive, and gainful employment by assuring an expanded and constant market for their products and services.

The statute directs state agencies and political subdivisions to purchase certain products and services from qualified nonprofit participating agencies throughout Florida employing individuals who are severely disabled. The idea is simple: state and local government agencies purchase products and services they already need from Florida-based nonprofit community organizations employing persons with disabilities. Under this program, persons with disabilities, governmental agencies, and Florida citizens all win.

- Meaningful employment is created for individuals with severe disabilities whose opportunities are otherwise limited;
- Government receives quality products and services at a fair market price determined by the Department of Management Services; and
- Florida and its' populace benefit by having fewer citizens dependent upon welfare and other tax-supported subsidies, and the state experiences economic growth as a result.

The purchase of these products or services are made through RESPECT of Florida, the designated Central Nonprofit Agency, a program of the Florida Association of Rehabilitation Facilities, Inc.

RESPECT is an example of privatized government operating at its best, requiring no direct state funding for operation. Jobs include packaging, janitorial and grounds maintenance, coin collection, electronic assembly, and various office employment opportunities. The RESPECT of Florida program has affirmed that citizens with disabilities are capable of competing in any industry if given the opportunity.

In 2003, 49 nonprofit agencies participated in the RESPECT program and produced a complete line of office, safety, and janitorial products, and provided services such as call center management, janitorial services and maintenance of interstate rest areas.

The State of Florida can be proud of the accomplishments of RESPECT of Florida. For nearly 26 years, RESPECT of Florida, in partnership with Florida's state and local government agencies, has provided meaningful employment opportunities to Florida residents with severe disabilities. RESPECT of Florida and the participating community-based organizations are working to ensure that every individual with a disability in the Sunshine State is provided with an opportunity to enjoy economic independence.

I fully support the RESPECT program and am committed to increasing job opportunities for our citizens with severe disabilities. I am asking all state agencies and political subdivisions to fully comply with the statutory responsibility of purchasing from RESPECT of Florida. Cooperation is critical for the program to continue to be successful in expanding employment for Florida's citizens with disabilities.

Although ONE FLORIDA has been a critical focus of our procurement efforts, I take this opportunity to respectfully remind you that increased minority business spending, which is of the utmost importance, need not come at the expense of RESPECT. In a state budget of our size, there is room for both increased minority business spending and increased spending with RESPECT.

Again, I commend you on your fabulous efforts thus far in making ONE FLORIDA a resounding success, and encourage you to continue the great work in exceeding even last year's record minority business spending. I trust that the same energy and commitment will ensure that our partnership with RESPECT remains strong and vibrant.

Respectfully,

Jeb Bush

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Despite the challenges of statewide budget cuts and restructuring, it was a successful Fiscal Year 2003 for RESPECT of Florida. Product revenues increased by 18% and service contracts 4% from the previous year. Total employment of Florida citizens with disabilities remained steady. There were no new product additions this year, but line extensions were given for file folders, wall clocks, and laser cartridges. Five new work centers were certified to participate in the RESPECT program as well.

There was an unprecedented reassignment of 12 products to new work centers, including file folders, wiping rags, stamps, writing instruments and POW flags. This significant reassignment of approximately 40% of revenue-producing products was completed with minimal loss and down time. We reduced our catalogue by removing clam/binder clips, sponges, cloth towels, copper scrubbers, and surge protectors. Positive developments were made in the pursuit of new products such as drug testing kits, sunscreen lotion and batteries, just to name just a few. There is a constant, necessary pursuit of new ideas for products and services that will create new job opportunities and strengthen our program.

RESPECT created two new committees: the Oversight Committee and the RESPECT Team. The Oversight Committee is a cross-section of work center Executive Directors that oversee operations and discuss important state use issues and developments. The RESPECT Team is comprised of work center operations management that address product and service related issues and provides a forum for members to share information.

Marketing efforts included RESPECT representation at pertinent trade shows, with emphasis this year on presenting the RESPECT program directly to procurement staff via internal staff meetings. Another new marketing approach is a monthly work center highlight, sent to our customer base via electronic mail, that highlights participating work centers and the products/services they provide. There was also significant increase in registrants for Club 413 (our new VIP club), a loyalty-based program that regularly shares RESPECT highlights and information with our members. Our new, more customer-friendly website has been developed and tested, and we expect it to be launched by January 2004.

Growth, rapid change, and relationship building have characterized Service Contracting in 2003. The three-way relationship between RESPECT, the Asset Managers, and the Department of Transportation presented a challenge that required innovation on the part of each party to integrate our respective missions into the whole. This integration process will continue to be refined as the fiscal year progresses. Growth has been consistent through the year, with the South Florida area leading in both expansion of existing contracts and in new contract opportunities.

The new MyFloridaMarketplace.com e-commerce initiative mandated by Governor Bush began its implementation in July 2003. The Department of Management Services and the Department of Transportation were utilized as the agencies for the initial Beta Test, and all other state entities are scheduled to systematically participate over the next year. Initial reports show that this new procedure is experiencing some growing pains; nonetheless, we are working to complete uploading of the RESPECT catalog into the system and expect this to be finalized by early 2004. In addition, we have negotiated an exclusive logo identifier that will mark each of our products, and we will have a “punch out” link that enables state purchasers to immediately connect to the RESPECT website. As a result of this initiative, we expect greater sales based upon the fact that all state purchasers are mandated to participate in this e-commerce initiative.

Forces for change that have come into play have included the privatization effort and the resulting statewide departmental downsizing. Department reorganizations often include new staff as well as new procedures for conducting business and this creates a learning curve for both the customer and RESPECT of Florida staff. These changes also offer opportunities for our staff to forge new relationships and provide input from our years of experience at a time when experienced personnel are becoming scarce in State offices. Although change can be uncomfortable, it can also bring opportunity in the form of new market ideas and new attitudes in older markets. RESPECT of Florida is dedicated to utilizing its unique position and proficient staff to take advantage of these opportunities, and thereby provide employment opportunities for persons with severe disabilities.
